

TWO GIRLS FORCED TO ROB JEWELLER BY WHITE SLAVERS

Julia Clark and May Meyer Confess Crime When Caught After Chase.

When two wayward girls—Julia Clark, nineteen, and May Meyer, two years younger—were arrested today before Magistrate Voorhees in the Gates Avenue Court, Brooklyn, on charges of grand larceny they told a sordid tale of the first step downward into white slavery which they had just taken and which their apprehension as thieves had arrested. The names of two young men were revealed in their story and detectives are now searching for them as being responsible for the girls' downfall.

The two girls were arrested after a long chase yesterday and the confessions they made to the Magistrate indicated that as companions of the two youths now wanted they had attempted a studied crime. On Tuesday two young men entered the jewelry store of Edward Busch at No. 234 Wyckoff avenue, in Ridgewood, and examined some watches. The next day they reappeared, accompanied by the two girls, who are now prisoners. Once more they viewed over the jeweller's stock without making any purchases. Yesterday the two girls returned alone.

ROBBER JEWELLER AFTER ASKING FOR A DRINK.
After examining all over again Busch's tray of watches the girls asked him if they could have a drink of water. Busch led them through his store and the living rooms behind to the kitchen, and gave them each a glass of water. Then he saw them go to an adjoining bathroom just as a customer entered the store. Busch hurried out to attend to the customer and forgot the two strange girls in the room behind him.

Five minutes passed and the jeweller thought he heard the noise of silver clinking against wood. He ran back to the bedroom to discover his two visitors with their hands in the drawer of a bureau. They whirled under his outspread arms as he advanced on them and raced out into the street. Busch, though lame, managed to pursue the girls, who had gathered up their skirts and were off like deer through Wyckoff avenue and into Irving avenue.

A crowd took up Busch's cry of "thief!" and soon men and boys were to full cry after the fugitives. The two dashed into the side door of a saloon on Irving avenue and begged the bartender to hide them. Instead he turned them out and they sprinted into Palmetto street, dashed up the steps of the house at No. 263 and banged the door after them.

DETECTIVE GETS INTO HOUSE AND ARRESTS GIRLS.

Detective Patton, who had joined in the chase, tried to force an entrance through the front door, but failed. He climbed the fire escape, entered a window on the second floor and, descending the stairs, came suddenly upon the two girls, clasped in each other's arms and huddled in the dark behind the front door. No one else was in the house. Julia Clark said she lived there.

STOLEN PROPERTY CONCEALED UNDER THEIR DRESSES.

When they were searched at the station a gold chain and some silver necklaces, totalling about $50 in value, were found under their dresses. Then the girls broke down and told how the two youths with whom they were infatuated had planned the robbery of Busch's store. Julia Clark had come to board with her at her home, No. 23 Wilson avenue, last October May Meyer, the younger girl, said Julia had taken her out to dances and they had met the two men. Finally the younger girl's parents had decided that the influence of the girl who was their boarder was bad for May and last week had ordered the older girl to leave the house. May secretly communicated with her and together they met the men who held them in the grip of white slavery. Both girls had planned to leave their homes and go into a life of degradation for the men they loved. The robbery of the jeweller was to have been the first step.

BRIDE WHO KILLED WOMAN SENTENCED FOR CRIME.

Mrs. Long Given Prison Term of From Two to Twenty-One Years—Must Also Pay Fine.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Dec. 6.—An indeterminate sentence to the Woman's Reformatory at Indianapolis of from two to twenty-one years and a fine of $5 and costs, was the punishment given today to Mrs. Elizabeth Lang, the young bride who killed Mrs. Mary Cople, a gossip, in defense of her good name.

JUSTICE MADDOX'S SON ARRESTED AND PUT IN CELL.

Bailed Out by His Father, He Is Arraigned on Charge of Intoxication.

Samuel T. Maddox Jr., the son of Supreme Court Justice Maddox of Brooklyn, pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication before Magistrate Voorhees in the Gates Avenue Court today, after having spent part of the night in a cell. Justice Maddox had given bail for his son after midnight, but he did not appear in the court when the case was called today.

Young Maddox, who gave his address as No. 239 Lewis avenue, Brooklyn, was found by Policeman O'Brien of the Clason avenue station in a helpless condition at Sumner avenue and Fulton street late last night. Not only were the young man's clothes smeared and sodden with rain, but his face was covered with blood and there was a cut on his lip which needed the attention of Dr. Poole when he was summoned from St. John's Hospital to the station. Justice Maddox took his son home in a taxi.

Young Maddox was inclined to be defiant when arraigned in court today. After he had made a plea of guilty and Magistrate Voorhees had suspended sentence the prisoner asked for a warrant for the arrest of the policeman who had picked him up. He declared that the policeman had assaulted him. The Magistrate advised him to go home.

To-day we illustrate some exceptionally beautiful guaranteed diamond and gold jewelry gifts at low prices.

Signet Ring Monograms Engraved Free

Fairly representative solid gold Lambert Signet Rings, contrasted patterns. Notice the brilliant effect of the diamonds in the chased and Masonic rings and of the elaborate carving and massiveness of the other.

Gold Charms and Lockets

Comparatively few of the new Christmas styles could be shown even in the entire space of our advertisement to-day. Quality is always guaranteed, although prices are astonishingly low. No charge for engraving monograms, but please let us have Christmas orders for engravings as early as you can.

Sleeve Links of Solid Gold

Built for service no less than for appearance. You cannot fail to be suited as to style, shape and price. Fresh patterns by the hundred, also in mother of pearl, at prices from $2.75 up.

Watches of Known High Quality

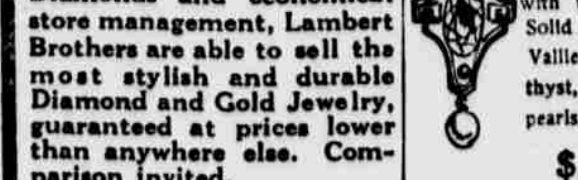

Lambert's store has long been headquarters for watches of the best makes, such as Waltham, Elgin, Howard, Hamilton, Longines, Lambert. You would not carry an unreliable watch, and you certainly would not knowingly give one as a Christmas present.

We guarantee all the watches in our store to be just right. We know they are right because our watchmakers inspect piece by piece every movement that comes into the store. Solid gold cases, like jewelry, are tested at the United States Assay Office.

Gifts That Stick

Brooches, Hand-dy-Pins, Bar-Pins, Vell-Pins, Belt-Pins. Engraved, enameled and finished in styles that captivate the eye and make small demand on the purse. Others, with diamonds and other gems, up to $1,500.00.

La Vallieres

These are both inexpensive, although fashionable and well made. Overt up to $1,000.00. Ask to see them and the chains that go with them.

Solid Gold La Valliere, 1 same, 2 whole pearls, $2.50

Solid 14-karat gold La Valliere with 1 who: pearl, coral drop, $4.50

Hand Made Fancy Platinum Pieces
